Takeaway Learnings

- The presence of law has been felt long before its official term. It bloomed in many fields over the years.
- The Multiple Intelligence Test (MIT) per the Multiple Intelligence Theory by Howard Gardner would test your innate skills and allow you to make informed decisions.
- With the emergence of the Internet in India in 1995, data has become the new currency of the economy. Artificial Intelligence, blockchains, cryptocurrency, and data management are emerging fields for the legal profession.
- Essential skills required in lawyers are comprehension skills, critical reasoning, analytical skills, practical problem solving, understanding theoretical concepts and its applications, communication and interpersonal skills, among others.
- The essential skills a lawyer of 2025 must go beyond the threshold of law. As a dynamic and interdisciplinary field, it demands knowledge of arts, humanities, sciences, management, IT, and forensics.
- Choosing a law school first requires you to analyze what you want to do after graduation. Setting goals helps you set your expectations which should filter your searches.
- A futuristic curriculum, teaching pedagogy that emphasizes learning over teaching, cohort size suitable for a smooth transition, and faculty-peer interactions are other factors to look into while searching for your ideal law school.
- These elements combined should be robust and interactive enough to develop 'T-shaped' professionals.
- A lawyer is a pioneer for social change, with multitudes of careers.
- Passion is a driving force you can never run out of- Dive right in and lead your way!
